

Privacy Policy

Protecting your private information is our priority. This Statement of Privacy applies to ElderHouse and governs data collection and usage. For the purposes of this Privacy Policy, unless otherwise noted, all references to ElderHouse website is a news and information site. By using the ElderHouse website, you consent to the data practices described in this statement.

Collection of your Personal Information

ElderHouse may collect personally identifiable information, such as your name. We may gather additional personal or non-personal information in the future.

Information about your computer hardware and software may be automatically collected by ElderHouse. This information can include: your IP address, browser type, domain names, access times and referring website addresses. This information is used for the operation of the service, to maintain quality of the service, and to provide general statistics regarding use of the ElderHouse website.

ElderHouse encourages you to review the privacy statements of websites you choose to link to from ElderHouse so that you can understand how those websites collect, use and share your information. ElderHouse is not responsible for the privacy statements or other content on websites outside of the ElderHouse website.

Use of your Personal Information

ElderHouse collects and uses your personal information to operate its website(s) and deliver the services you have requested.

ElderHouse may also use your personally identifiable information to inform you of other products or services available from ElderHouse and its affiliates. ElderHouse may also contact you via surveys to conduct research about your opinion of current services or of potential new services that may be offered.

ElderHouse does not sell, rent or lease its customer lists to third parties.

ElderHouse may, from time to time, contact you on behalf of external business partners about a particular offering that may be of interest to you. In those cases, your unique personally identifiable information (e-mail, name, address, telephone number) is transferred to the third party. ElderHouse may share data with trusted partners to help perform statistical analysis, send you email or postal mail, provide customer support, or arrange for deliveries. All such third parties are prohibited from using your personal information except to provide these services to ElderHouse, and they are required to maintain the confidentiality of your information.

ElderHouse may keep track of the websites and pages our users visit within ElderHouse, in order to determine what ElderHouse services are the most popular. This data is used to deliver customized content and advertising within ElderHouse to customers whose behavior indicates that they are interested in a particular subject area.

ElderHouse will disclose your personal information, without notice, only if required to do so by law or in the good faith belief that such action is necessary to: (a) conform to the edicts of the law or comply with legal process served on ElderHouse or the site; (b) protect and defend the rights or property of ElderHouse; and, (c) act under exigent circumstances to protect the personal safety of users of ElderHouse, or the public.

Use of Cookies

The ElderHouse website may use "cookies" to help you personalize your online experience. A cookie is a text file that is placed on your hard disk by a web page server. Cookies cannot be used to run programs or deliver viruses to your computer. Cookies are uniquely assigned to you, and can only be read by a web server in the domain that issued the cookie to you.

One of the primary purposes of cookies is to provide a convenience feature to save you time. The purpose of a cookie is to tell the Web server that you have returned to a specific page. For example, if you personalize ElderHouse pages, or register with ElderHouse site or services, a cookie helps ElderHouse to recall your specific information on subsequent visits. This simplifies the process of recording your personal information, such as billing addresses, shipping addresses, and so on. When you return to the same ElderHouse website, the information you previously provided can be retrieved, so you can easily use the ElderHouse features that you customized.

You have the ability to accept or decline cookies. Most Web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies if you prefer. If you choose to decline cookies, you may not be able to fully experience the interactive features of the ElderHouse services or websites you visit.

Security of your Personal Information

ElderHouse secures your personal information from unauthorized access, use or disclosure.

Children Under Thirteen

ElderHouse does not knowingly collect personally identifiable information from children under the age of thirteen. If you are under the age of thirteen, you must ask your parent or guardian for permission to use this website.

Opt-Out & Unsubscribe

We respect your privacy and give you an opportunity to opt-out of receiving announcements of certain information. Users may opt-out of receiving any or all communications from ElderHouse by contacting us here:

- Email: info@elderhouse.org
- Phone: (203) 847-1998

Changes to this Statement

ElderHouse will occasionally update this Statement of Privacy to reflect company and customer feedback. ElderHouse encourages you to periodically review this Statement to be informed of how ElderHouse is protecting your information.

Contact Information

ElderHouse welcomes your questions or comments regarding this Statement of Privacy. If you believe that ElderHouse has not adhered to this Statement, please contact ElderHouse at: (203) 847-1998